Reviews

A really great publication with lucid and perfect reasons. I have read through and i am confident that i am going to gonna read yet again yet again down the road. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.

At the dawn a risen lark Pierced the clouds with such a lay, With such sweetness fill d my brain, That I woke and saw the day. And I smelt the window rose, Heard the sharp bleat from the pen, Felt the living breeze blow in, And was one with living men. Love! I lose you once again--For the sad, wild dreams are flown That your face made yet so sweet--And I know I am alone. From the lonely light I turn, Fold my eyes, feign sleep again; Weak, so weak, a little while--Till I learn to bear this pain. I shall bear it, knowing well You will love me out of sight, Till the veil that hangs between, Parts, and yields you with the light. MY BABE. 1 . Ay yes! I see the morning come, The blue sky on the pane; But I am fain to turn my head, And fall asleep again. 2. You broke the sweetest dream in two, You bid me wake too soon; To match the dream, and know the end, I fain would lie till noon. 3-Just half awake, and half asleep, I thought our babe that s dead Was by me, on this lonely arm I felt the downy head. 4-Ay me! the little downy head That lay so soft and warm; I felt the.quick breaths on my cheek, And clasped the little form. 5. Then fast asleep...
