Not illustrated. 1921 Excerpt: .Civil Service Commission (1889-1895) in the Commission offices in Washington; on the other hand, all the correspondence files covering the period of his presidency of the New York Police Board (1895-1897) have been destroyed. Two out of five letter-press books are all that remain to represent the year he served as Assistant Secretary of the Navy; the files of his years as Governor of New York are very incomplete. Of the countless letters written with his own hand during these years there are no copies in existence. Much important material has already been received from members of the Roosevelt family, who appear to recognize that Roosevelt House (which is of fire-proof construction and, in addition, is protected by the most modern system of fire-detection) is the logical place for valuable Rooseveltiana. Mrs. Roosevelt has deposited all of Mr. Roosevelt's boyhood letters with the Association, and Mrs. Douglas Robinson has placed the complete file of her letters from her brother for safe-keeping in the vaults at Roosevelt House. Anyone owning any Roosevelt letters from the period preceding September, 1901, or letters written by Mr. Roosevelt in his own hand at any time of his life, is urged to deposit either the originals or copies (photographic or photostatic, not typewritten) in the Library at Roosevelt House. In cases where the owners of letters are unwilling to part permanently with them and do not wish to go to the trouble and expense of having them copied, it is...
