It will be published in America in Harpers Weekly, and in Australia in a prominent Sydney paper. Messrs. Isbister expect to issue early in the new year Professor Moultons important book, The Literary Study of the Bible--an account of the leading forms of literature represented in the various books of the sacred writings. Mr. Moulton, who was formerly Lecturer in Literature under the Local Lectures Syndicate of the University of Cambridge, is at present Professor of English Literature in the University of Chicago. In the Contemporary for Januaiy Mr. Jon Stefansson makes an interesting contribution to the literature which has grown round about Hamlet. It appears that in Shakespeares time the royal castle at Elsinore contained a stateroom hung with tapestry, qn which the mythical and historic Kings of Denmark were depicted in their habits as they lived. From this fact it is evident that Shakespeare intended the counterfeit presentment of two brothers to appear, not as miniatures or a picture and a miniature (according to the reading of various tragedians), but as full-length figures in the arras. A more interesting matter is how it happened that Shakespeare was aware of the existence of these kings of shreds and patches. Mr. Stefansson adduces evidence to make it probable, if not absolutely to prove, that the poet may have been a member...
